

the HARLEQUIN

Sam Riviere

ice-cream sunsets

I usually don't wander from my 2 regular flavours from soft-serve in California to scooping in Washington.

Tucked in a tree-lined complex with a stunning ocean view,
I know the current owners of this place. They took over the establishment around the time I left High School.

They used to own A Slice of Summer;
Everyday is like Sundae for years to come.
Around the west there's reason for nostalgia.
Just looking through old stuff and quite liked this one.

Thank you for reading! Find more at www.theharlequin.org

